Transcript of Oral History Interview

These electronic documents were created from transcripts available in the research room of the John F. Kennedy Library. The transcripts were scanned using optical character recognition and the resulting text files were proofread against the original transcripts. Some formatting changes were made. Page numbers are noted where they would have occurred at the bottoms of the pages of the original transcripts. If researchers have any concerns about accuracy, they are encouraged to visit the Library and consult the transcripts and the interview recordings.

SECRETARY-GENERAL TO THE PRESIDENT REPUBLIC OF CHINA

Taipei, Taiwan February 26, 1965

Mr. Frederick G. Dutton Coordinator c/o James Harrison Room 7253 Department of States Washington, D. C. U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Dutton,

This is to acknowledge with thanks receipt of your letter of January 16, 1965 and its enclosures.

Regarding your request for President Chiang to sign a legal form of transfer for his recorded tape previously sent to the Kennedy Library, as he has stated in his letter of December 5, 1964 to Mr. Robert Kennedy that the recording or its text in question may be released at any time, you may probably agree that this formality of signing a legal transfer can be done away with.

We thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Chang Chund

Senator Robert Kennedy Hickory Hill McLean, Virginia U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Kennedy:

Earlier in the year, I received your letter of March 23 asking me to take part in the oral history program for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library. Secretary General Chang Chun, in acknowledging your letter on my behalf on May 27, informed you that most likely I would record a statement on November 22, the first anniversary of President Kennedy's assassination. This I have done, and the tape accompanied by both Chinese and English texts, has been sent to you through the U.S. Embassy in Taipei. It should have reached you by now. I wish to add that you may release my recording or its text to the public any time you wish.

Wishing you continued success in your political career,

Sincerely yours,

Oral History Statement

22 November 1964

For the John F. Kennedy Library

Today is the first anniversary of the tragic assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the 35th President of the United States. On this occasion I wish to recall to memory some of the efforts he made in behalf of freedom and peace.

Though I never had the pleasure of meeting President Kennedy personally, I was profoundly impressed by the exemplary record of his more than ten years in public life. As early as 1947, when the international situation was deteriorating rapidly, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, then a member of the House of Representatives and only thirty years of age, impressed the world with his strong support for President Truman's [Harry S. Truman] policy of aiding Turkey and Greece. During the years when the situation on the Chinese mainland was going from bad to worse, Mr. Kennedy spoke out for China. In speeches delivered in the House of Representatives, he pointed out the causes for failure of American foreign policy in the Far East and appealed for action to prevent the Communist disaster that was threatening all of Asia. His stand at that time showed his political far-sightedness and his courage in upholding justice. His statements provided much encouragement to peoples who were overcoming extreme difficulties in order to continue the life-and-death struggle to defeat totalitarian tyranny to assure freedom.

During the presidential campaign of 1960, I came to have deep respect for his ability, his great talents, his youthful vitality, and his resourcefulness.

On the occasion of his inauguration, he expressed his concern about world developments and his willingness to shoulder the responsibility for maintaining world peace. I remember that he said: "Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty." He said further: "In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger. I do not shrink from this responsibility—I welcome it." These remarks were echoed and reechoed in the hearts of freedom-loving, peace-loving people throughout the world.

President Kennedy met his tragic death without serving out his term. Yet with his great capability and his high political ideals, he recorded brilliant domestic achievements during his brief two years and ten months in the presidency. He earned his rightful place in history and should be ranked with the other immortals of the past. In several of his speeches, he expressed his admiration for Abraham Lincoln. The two shared the same lofty political ideals. President Lincoln, who had signed the proclamation emancipating the Negro slaves, was assassinated by a man of doubtful sonneteer. President Kennedy, sponsored various measures to protect civil rights and to promote freedom, justice and equality of opportunities for all, also met his death at the hands of a lunatic. He may be compared with Lincoln in greatness of spirit and generosity of heart as well. I personally consider President Kennedy as the "second Lincoln" among U.S. presidents because of his efforts to restore freedom and hope to the billion people enslaved by the Communists. It is a terrible calamity that in the prime of his life, President Kennedy met the same fate as Lincoln. While we grieve over this tragedy, we may derive some comfort from the fact that President Kennedy, in sacrificing his life to uphold righteousness and to safeguard human rights, earned an immortal page in history beside that of Lincoln. "He who seeks benevolence has found it." President Kennedy could die without regrets.

Though he held the highest office for such a short time, President Kennedy's diplomatic accomplishments were not inferior to those of any other modern world statesman. At the time he took office, the international Communist bloc was at the height of its arrogance. His correct policy and firm stand prevented the Communists from making, any substantial international gains. In the Cuban Crisis of October, 1962, the courageous decision and actions of President Kennedy compelled Nikita Khrushchev [Nikitia Sergeyevich Khrushchev] to yield and withdraw the Soviet missiles. Thus nipped in the bud was the possible catastrophe of nuclear war for the peoples of the Western Hemisphere as well as for the rest of the world. This contribution of President Kennedy to peace and to the welfare of the people of the world will be written gloriously in mankind's history.

Although President Kennedy won universal acclaim for safeguarding world peace and seeking freedom for all mankind, he was not able to implement fully his ideals in international politics, for the freedom of man, and for the security of the world. He failed, for example, to attain his objective of eliminating the evil of Communism in Laos and truly unifying and neutralizing that country. Nor was he able to carry out his policy of defeating the Viet Cong guerrillas and of stabilizing the situation in Southeast Asia. Thus the Viet Cong rebels today are more rampant than ever and the situation in Vietnam is more perilous than during his lifetime. President Kennedy did not live to realize his goal of controlling Peiping's nuclear ambitions and of eliminating the danger of atomic war and of promoting the peace and welfare of mankind. Alas, all these unfinished tasks express the tragedy of his loss. Had God seen fit to prolong his life, I am convinced that he would join us in our common task and that together we would be able to prevent the Chi-Coms from engulfing all Asia.

Judging from the profound lamentation of the American nation and its allies at his passing, we may see that both his domestic and international achievements won widespread acclaim at home and abroad. I regard him as one of the greatest American leaders in history. Like a comet, his passage was swift, yet his brilliant light will shine upon the earth forever. On this first anniversary of his death, I express my deepest respects to the memory of a great American President.
